Dear Tribal Leaders, Tribal Emergency Managers, and Conference Attendees,

I am honored to welcome you to the National Tribal Emergency Management Council's Annual Conference. It is a pleasure to acknowledge our tribal partnerships with the National Congress of American Indians, United South and Eastern Tribes, Affiliated Tribes of Northwest Indians, United Tribes of Michigan, Alaska Inter-Tribal Council, Montana Indian Nation Working Group, Northwest Tribal Emergency Management Council, and the National Joint Powers Alliance.

This has been a year of significant growth and development for the NTEMC. We have agreements with tribes and tribal organizations to support and contribute to the emergency management and homeland security efforts throughout Indian Country. We have become engaged with the federal government in many areas where tribes have not been included in the past. There is progress but we know there is much more to be done. Our mission is to help tribes reach their tribal goals in the emergency management world.

Tribes are faced with ever increasing challenges from climate changes and the effects on the magnitude and occurrence of natural disasters, to fulfilling the basic needs of an emergency management program. Since its inception, the NTEMC has grown into a national organization earning respect in the tribal and federal arenas. The Council continues to serve as a resource of vital information pertinent to the development of tribal emergency management programs, assists with emergency planning, and acts as an advocate to the federal government for tribal issues. The NTEMC is also unique in the fact there are no membership requirements for tribes. The Executive Board of Directors believes that the NTEMC should include all tribes willing to support the Council's efforts to assist tribes in developing their emergency management programs.

Tribal Nations have come together to promote sovereignty, self-determination, self-reliance and self-governance. In forming partnerships with other governments and the private sector, we can ensure the voice of Indian Country is heard and respected. Our goal is to continue to grow, learn and share our knowledge throughout Indian Country as we strive to improve nation-to-nation relationships between tribes and other governments.

I want to thank our partners for their support and ask everyone to join the NTEMC as we work to develop our tribal emergency management programs.

Sincerely,

Steve
